

Three musical geniuses ...and a trombone player.

Locust Street Taxi

Fifth generation ska, pop and swing.

James Porter
Stand-up Bass

Nathan Geyer
Trombone/Trumpet

Franco Bertucci
Quil-Billy Guitar

Sam Stockard
Percussion

“Consummate performers.” - The Yakima Herald Republic

“Like a zoo burning down...but in a good way.” - Darrell Romine

Locust Street Taxi are a band comprised of three musical geniuses and James. (James is a genius in all disciplines.) Skeptics may scoff, but there is no other way to describe a band that can make grandmothers smile, children laugh, baby-boomers dance, college students spend money, middle-school students take up trombone, brides and grooms dance to The Muppet Show theme song, sound engineers remove their ear plugs, lady booking agents give up their phone numbers, Seattleites move their heads slightly, country music fans refrain from throwing beer, owners of ship-building shelters check their insurance policies, fifth-generation ska fans skank, swing-dancers dance in 7/4 time and radio DJs shout “Crack-a-lackin’!” I could go on all day, but then I would have to make some stuff up.

Hear the band: www.locuststreettaxi.com